[BEGINNING OF CALL]
IN: Ray.

HRS: Hey.

JN: Hello.

HRS: Hello, Josh? [U/I]

HRS: Hellooooo?

JN: Hello? Can you hear me?

HRS: Josh?

JN: Yeah, yeah.

HRS: Just got out of my doctor. He told me I could come stop by for a while tonight.

JN: Okay, great.

HRS: He said it's cool. Uh, I gotta get like, ya know two minutes with Chris and then ahh you, I will give you the checks after that.

JN: Ok. That that's awesome.

HRS: I'm going to pick up the checks, alright?

JN: I appreciate that. Don't forget I need one for the, uh, Democratic State Party.

HRS: Right. Yep. And, who do we owe in the Senate? Or was that, is that all, you know, do I owe somebody? Does Chris owe somebody upstairs for all the amendments and shit.

JN: No not. Not at all, not at all man. That's, you know.

HRS: Alright.

JN: That's just what happens. The bill was dead, so they, they were trying to use it for something else. So it had nothing to do with, with what we did, so.

HRS: Okay.

JN: Alright?
HRS: Alright brother.

JN: Alright. I'll see you soon.

HRS: Ahh about seven o'clock or so. I'm not coming for five.

JN: Ok.

HRS: I would never make it.

JN: We'll see, we'll see you when you get there. Alright.

JN: Bye.
